Paul A. Cox, M.D.

Dr. Paul A. Cox had four passions - his family, his medical practice, golf and his commitment to the decrease of death and disability due to trauma. He brought all of those together as he volunteered for the American Trauma Society, Pennsylvania Division.

His distinguished medical practice included serving as a flight surgeon in World War II, Newfoundland and Labrador, as a medical missionary in Nigeria and as a general practitioner in Newville, Pennsylvania for 14 years. For many years before his retirement, Dr. Cox was an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist in the greater Carlisle area.

Dr. Cox loved golf - he loved and lived his life to the fullest every day. He could often be spotted out on the green in his knickers playing golf with his wife, Julia.

We are pleased to honor Dr. Cox with the Memorial Golf Tournament for his passion for golf and his injury prevention efforts.

Sincerely,
The ATSPA Staff
